

Tonight's episode of The Walking Dead introduced us to yet another community, but things look set to take a sinister turn next week when the spotlight is put on the home of Negan and the Saviors. The synopsis for "Sing Me A Song" doesn't reveal much, but promises: "A deeper look at the Sanctuary and the world of the Saviors; members of Alexandria look for supplies." Pretty intriguing, right? Fans of the comic books will know that the title is a reference to what happens after Carl sneaks into the Sanctuary and ends up being given a tour by Negan. The villain forces the youngster to remove his bandages and sing him a song, though it is of course possible that the captive Daryl - or perhaps even Jesus - will end up taking his place in this episode. For now, we'll just going to have to wait and see.
