

The website tvline.com has the scoop on Mauel, the comic relief. AMC's monster hit will be adding to its canvas a recurring character named Manuel, who I'm told is strong, smart, kinda blue-collar and potentially the comic relief that the show has never really had. That description matches up perfectly with a call sheet that was posted onspoilertv.com. "MANUEL] 30 to 40, Hispanic, a working class survivor, he is confident, physically skilled, a leader when necessary, capable and smart. Has a terrific sense of humor where you wouldn't expect one. Recurring." While Spoiler Chat at eonline.com has the scoop on the second addition to the cast. A character that could replace Dale as the moral compass of the group. Our merry band of survivors will meet up with a guy who's the exact opposite of Shane (RIP). Like Dale (RIP), Harold is "a studious and fastidious man" trying to carve out a postapocalyptic niche

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/nailbiter111/news/?a=60162>