

The cast of Predator is already pretty damn impressive thanks to the likes of Boyd Holbrook, Keegan-Michael Key, and Trevante Rhodes lined up to take on the iconic aliens, but now The Hollywood Reporter reveals that Thomas Jane is in talks to join the reboot which is being helmed by Shane Black. There's no news on who the former Punisher will play as of right now, but he joins other recent addition Sterling K. Brown (Black Panther) in a movie which looks set to restore the franchise to its former glory. We don't know too much about it right now, but production is set to begin in February. However, the trade mentions that Logan star Boyd Holbrook is, "leading an ensemble cast in a story which features an array of the alien hunters first seen in the 1987 movie starring Arnold Schwarzenegger, but this time in a more domestic setting." Are you looking forward to Predator?

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/sci-fi/thomas-jane-will-punish-the-predator-in-shane-blacks-upcoming-reboot-a148408>