

Marvel and director Alan Taylor are currently in London prepping the official commencement of filming for the anticipated sequel, Thor: The Dark World. And although primary cast additions have yet to unveil, casting calls for background roles apparently have. According to a Tumblr user, a casting call for the anticipated sequel has revealed producers are in need of extras that're particularly experts with fire. The Tumblr user writes: "Marvel [is] looking for male Fire dancers, fire eaters, etc. for extras...for Thor 2". If legit, how do you think fire dancing-eating relates to the Alan Taylor-helmed sequel? It's likely to involve earthbound scenes, but more interestingly, it could be one of the other "dark worlds" the Asgardians are bound to pay a visit. Perhaps, the casting call alludes to the sequel exploring Muspelheim, the realm of eternal fire, and the home of the Fire Demons and their ruler Surtur. That could

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=64524>