

Over the last few weeks it seems we've been bombarded with news concerning lawsuits challenging comic character rights. Reports concerning numerous characters, their creators and respective comic companies have been an everyday occurrence. NEWSaRAMA had the opportunity to sit down with fan favorite Spider-Man artist and SPAWN creator Todd McFarlane, who also happens to be one of the men who spearheaded the Creator Owned movement at Image Comics in the early 90's. Now, 20 years after it's inception, Image co founder McFarlane had plenty to say on the topic of creator rights. He also offers his opinion concerning various lawsuits that have been making recent headlines. What follows is just a small portion of the interview in which McFarlane tells us some of the tribulations you can expect to encounter when starting your own creator owned title at Image. From NEWSaRAMA... I think that when we came out of the gate and we offered

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GulfCoastAvengers/news/?a=55044&t=TODD_McFARLANE_Discusses_What_It_Takes_to_Get_Started_at_Image_Comics