

A couple of days ago, I posted a portion from part one of an interview conducted by NEWSaRAMA with writer/artist/Image Comics founder, Todd McFarlane. Part two of that very same interview seems to have just as many interesting little nuggets for us. It seems many of you who read what McFarlane had to say in the first half of the interview were interested in hearing some sort of update on the state of the long rumored, new SPAWN movie script. When asked about that specific topic, he dropped some interesting tidbits on the state of the project as well as his thoughts on re-starting comics at issue #1. From NEWSaRAMA... All the ancillary stuff will come pouring out fairly quickly once I get the big component done, once I announce a movie. Do I keep nibbling away at it? Yeah. Do I keep getting distracted? Yeah. You know, we just had another conversation

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GulfCoastAvengers/news/?a=55175&t=TODD_McFARLANE_on_the_Long_Awaited_SPAWN_Movie_Script_and_Renumbering_Comics