

In couple of interviews, Todd McFarlane mentioned that he is trying to make a new Spawn film and that he is writing a script. McFarlane said that it will won't a typical adaptation of this character, but something very different. How different you ask? Well, during New York Comic Con, The Movie Blog had a chance to ask him couple of questions about the project, where he compared it to Martin Scorsese's The Departed. More below... On the status of the project: All they're waiting for is my script. As soon as I get my script, which could take me about 2 months if I'm not distracted, that's always a good guess. I got the story, I've been living with the story for 10 years I know the story I got the story down... which is why they wanna make it! Cus, I keep pitching them the story and they go "Well, go

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/Wolvie09/news/?a=49091&t=Todd_McFarlane_Updates_On_New_iSpawni_Movie_Compares_It_To_iThe_Departedi