

In two weeks, Jack Reacher returns to the hunt and that means, some bad guys are definitely getting their arms ripped off and will likely also be beaten to death with them. Entertainment Tonight has released a cool new featurette with tons of behind-the-scenes footage of the back-breaking stunt work from the Ed Zwick-directed film. We also catch superstar Tom Cruise sharing a few thoughts on the titular hero: "Reacher is a badass, tough character. The character has a very swift and violent approach. Even if you're knocked out, he's going to break your leg, because he doesn't want you coming after him." His co-star Cobie Smulders, who plays Major Susan Turner, also drops in near the end to briefly describe her much different experience and the sheer physicality of filming the eagerly awaited action sequel: "It was a huge education in that world of being fit, staying fit, You had to get to a certain fitness level. We were [training] six weeks before
