

Recently elaborating on his career with the U.K.'s Independent, British actor Tom Hiddleston surely discussed his 'God Of Mischief' reprisal as 'Loki' in Marvel and Joss Whedon's superhero phenomenon flick The Avengers. Not surprisingly, given the exalted company that sort of get-together entails, Hiddleston calls the experience "entirely surreal". "There was one day when, as Loki, I was sat on some steps, staring at the Avengers in front of me. It would be quite odd just to look at a grouping that involves [such actors as] Robert Downey Jr, Scarlett Johansson, Chris Evans, Samuel L Jackson, Mark Ruffalo, Jeremy Renner and Chris Hemsworth. But the fact that they were dressed in the most outlandish hero costumes was bizarre! And I thought to myself, 'This is the dizzy heights.'" Soon there will be a day where The Avengers stars can share more than what their Non-disclosure agreement allows them to; at the moment. But
