

Top Ten Stupidest Reason to Time Travel In Film History by Brian VanHooker Turtle With Lemonade Productions www.turtlewithlemonade.com There are plenty of good reason to time travel: you want to save humanity or kill baby Hitler or you want a pet Velociraptor, but on film we've also gotten a lot of lousy excuses to travel through time, and here's the ten dumbest.

10. You're Born That Way In the sappy love story The Time Traveler's Wife, Eric Bana is a man born with a genetic disorder which causes him to time travel inadvertently to random time periods. That's right, he was just born that way. No Flux Capacitor, no wormholes, no gamma rays, he just inherited the old time-travel-gene. While some kids are born with freckles, Eric Bana is born with the ability to rip apart the space/time continuum. And, as if that weren't ridiculous enough, he also passes on this gene to his children, who

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/bvanhooker/news/?a=68834>