

You might think Lucas and co approve everything that is put in front of them, after all given the amount of Star Wars merchandise out there why wouldn't you? But it seems they do have limits. However, far from being the completely over the top designs and ideas you might expect, a lot of this stuff is actually pretty awesome! I know I would definitely be sitting in a Jabba bean bag chair right now if I could be.. Incidentally, they did eventually make some Han Solo in Carbonite ice-cube trays. I know because I have some. The designs showed up first over at Action Figure Insider. Well which of these would take your fancy, and which ones are you glad never saw the light of day?

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrants/news/?a=55445&t=TOYS_Rejected_STAR_WARS_Merchandise_Concept_Designs