

Beginning October 25th, John Carpenter's Halloween will terrify a whole new generation of moviegoers. The movie is expected to have a pretty wide release, so far as we know in the US only. Justin Beahm's new mini-doc You Can't Kill The Boogeyman: 35 Years Of Halloween will screen with it. Here you can see a trailer for the re-release, featuring that iconic John Carpenter score. If you have never seen the original Halloween, I suggest you do so this October.. Compass International Pictures, Trancas International Films, Screenvision, and HalloweenMovies.com are proud to present the one sheet for this October's U.S. theatrical re-release of John Carpenter's 1978 masterpiece, HALLOWEEN. The poster, designed by artist Austin Hinderliter, marks the return of THE SHAPE to cinema lobbies across the country, presenting the ultimate evil in shadow and autumnal oranges.

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrants/news/?a=67716>