

Can Mark Millar sort out Fox's X-Men franchise? While First Class was indeed a redemption from The Last Stand and X-Men Origins: Wolverine it still raised some head-scratching continuity questions. There's a Deadpool movie that's stuck in development limbo and a Fantastic Four reboot that's crucial to the studio's future plans of what they refer to as a 'shared universe.' While we wait to see how the story unfolds, here are the top tweets from the twittersphere about the announcement. Congrats to Mark Millar... couldn't happen to a nicer guy. Does this mean The Thing is gonna be swearing like Hit Girl?

hollywoodreporter.com/heat-vision/co...— Jeff Wadlow (@JeffWadlow) September 27, 2012
So, so EXCITED for @mrmarkmillar in his new post as consultant for FOX on their Marvel films. HUGE! comingsoon.net/news/movienews... via @comingsoonnet— robertliefeld (@robertliefeld) September 27, 2012 Way to go, Marky Millar!
hollywoodreporter.com/heat-vision/co...— Dave Gibbons (@davegibbons90) September 28, 2012 “@mrmarkmillar: So FOX have hired some

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=67953>