

Khan Noonian Singh was rumored to be the villain in J.J Abrams' Star Trek reboot sequel for a while, but now that we have seen images of Benedict Cumberbatch's character, that seems unlikely. But we will always have the vicious old bastard from the awesome sequel to the original Trek movie in our hearts. Here is Tyler Stout's poster for Mondo.. I think it's safe to say that we all like these Mondo posters here at CBM, and today they opened a gallery space in Austin Texas. Their first show includes 38 pieces of original and screen printed sci-fi art. Here is an excerpt from the press release.. "We are so proud to unveil our first gallery space. The evolution of Mondo has taken us from being head-quartered in a ticket booth at the original Alamo location to our own standalone headquarters. We will take advantage of the extra room by having

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsraints/news/?a=56146>