

If you thought the '60s Batman show was off the wall, just wait until you see these beauties. Apparently the great success of that show led William Dozier to see if he could recreate it with some other DC superheros. He gave Yvonne Craig, who had played Batgirl in the Batman show already, her own five minute proof of concept pilot. That one pretty much has the same vibe as the Batman show, but the Wonder Woman show - which would have been called "Who's Afraid of Diana Prince?" - was plain batshit crazy, and actually pretty funny! Have a look at these and be sure to sound off in the usual place.. And just in case you didn't know, Yvonne Craig also played the original sexy green alien chick in Star Trek: TOS..

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrrants/news/?a=58239>