

Deadline reveals that Universal Pictures are in talks to make Kick-Ass 2, the sequel to Matthew Vaughn's 2010 movie based on the popular comic book series by writer Mark Millar and artist John Romita Jr. Jeff Wadlow is attached to direct the script that he has written, with production expected to begin this August. Talks are already underway with actors Aaron Johnson, Chloe Moretz and Christopher Mintz-Plasse. Wadlow (Cry Wolf, Never Back Down) wrote the script for Matthew Vaughn and the site reveals that it is already before Universal's green-light committee with a deal set to close very soon.

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=59390>