

Bleeding Cool are reporting that Geoff Johns and Jim Lee will work together for the very first time on a new Justice League comic when things are restarted with all titles going back to "No.1" after Flashpoint. It will feature Superman, Batman, Wonder Woman, Green Lantern and several other characters following the current Flashpoint crossover. It's the return of the World's Greatest Superheroes to the book for the first time in years. Apparently the series will begin around September. Notice there will be no subtitle.. "International".. "Of America", just Justice League. Both Johns and Lee have been incredibly popular figures in comics for many years now, with Johns taking an active role in DC's cinematic offerings too. No more info is currently available for this new comic, but one thing is for sure, it should be worth waiting for! Update: USA Today have some more info on this. Justice League #1 will hit shelves August

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrrants/news/?a=38401&t=font_color_redUPDATEfont_Comics_First_Look_At_Jim_Lee_Geoff_Johns_iJustice_League_1