

A Batman fan film titled Batman Evolution went into production in Hollywood last month. “What’s the big deal,” you ask? “Fan films are being made all the time and they usually suck.” True, true, but few fan films can boast a Hollywood director behind the camera, a rogues gallery of thugs played by Hollywood’s premiere stunt team 87eleven (The Avengers, 300), and an actor playing Batman who also happens to have black belts in jujitsu, tae kwon do and ninjutsu. Yeah, that’s right. This fan film can claim an actor playing one of comicdom’s greatest ninjas who is actually a ninja! Actor Eric Gable — first profiled right here on CBM as my choice to play Iron Fist in a Marvel Studios production — not only stars in the short movie, but he also wrote it and choreographed all of the fight sequences. He also happens

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/BrentSprecher/news/?a=66965>