

Yesterday, a new Marvel NOW! series from Dennis Hopeless and Kev Walker was teased with a blood splattered word "SURVIVE" our only clue as to what exactly it might be. The day before that saw "LIGHTNING" from Daniel Way and Steve Dillon, so whether all of these are somehow connected isn't clear, although many fans are speculating that these all have something to do with Marvel's covert teams. Today's teaser teams Hopeless up with Invincible Iron Man artist Salvador Larroca. "WANTED" could refer to just about anything, although it seems unlikely that this will be a new Punisher series as Frank Castle will be right in the middle of Greg Rucka's "War Zone" this Winter. As always, be sure to sound off with your thoughts and theories in the usual place. UPDATE: Following the release of the teaser above by Comic Book Resources, Comics Alliance have unveiled "KILLERS" from Sam Humphries (Ultimates

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=66905>