

BLEEDING COOL has updated their article with this letter: All credit to Diamond Comic Distributors on this one. I think someone there noticed that I was picking up on some stories that were running on their website, but weren't fully linked from the home page yet. Such as Marvel's marketshare in December, and lists of upcoming comic books for the next two weeks. So it seems they laid a trap, one written to appeal to Bleeding Cool, and I fell for it hook, line and sinker. Diamond ran an article on their website outlining a fictitious crossover – one that has now disappeared and I have emails from Marvel Comics peeps asking if April has come early... Well played, Diamond, well played. Do I detect the influence of Bob Wayne in this one at all? You may all begin the collective mocking... now. The original article appears below. It is based on a fabrication. I always have

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/debbiedowner/news/?a=52220&t=font_colorredUPDATEfont_Marvel_DC_to_Publish_New_12_Issue_SPIDER-MANBATMAN_Crossover