

We know Ash won't be a part of the new movie, we know it will pretty much follow the same plot but with a less comedic tone (although really, the original movie WAS more horror than comedy), and now we know the first cast member.. Bloody Disgusting has learned exclusively that Lily Collins (The Blind Side, Priest, Mirror Mirror) is in final negotiations to play "Mia" in FilmDistrict's reboot aiming for release on April 12, 2013. Well, that's a pretty big casting coup for Ghost House and Mandate imo. Collins is a star on the rise and Mirror Mirror will no doubt cement her status. Mia is the character that is a recovering addict, and the first one to notice something is very wrong with the cabin which her and her pals are occupying. I was against this, I'm still against it. But this is solid casting and I'm willing to see what
