

Oh baby! That's right yours truly posted that spoiler online about Michonne popping up at the end of season two, and well well I was right. I'm so excited to see the sword wielding badass simply known as Michonne joining the television series. She sure does make an amazing entrance as she saves Andrea from a walker by decapitation. No actress at the time of filming had been cast in the role, so they used a stand in, but it didn't matter it was terrific, very exciting. By the way how great was that finale? You had people dying, you had Rick act like a dick at the end tossing democracy away for a dictatorship. But like I said above the appearance of Michonne was the icing on my cake. I just knew when I saw Andrea alone in the woods running on fumes that she would be miraculously saved by

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/nailbiter111/news/?a=56586>