

Since news broke that DC and WB were planning a Justice League movie we were all left wondering exactly how the current incarnations of the characters associated with the team would fit in, if at all. HeyUGuys asked Zack Snyder the very question of his upcoming take on Superman.. 'It doesn't. Like what Chris Nolan is doing and what I'm doing with Superman, what they'll do with Justice League will be it's own thing with it's own Batman and own Superman. We'll be over here with our movie and they kinda get to do it twice which is kinda cool' Kinda cool, but also kinda not. This probably means the same for Ryan Reynolds as Green Lantern. This Justice League movie sounds just like an updated version of the last one(Justice League: Mortal) that was planned, which would have also featured different takes on the characters. Anyway, looks like thing are
