

Filming for Marvel and Joss Whedon's ultimate superhero team-up The Avengers is well underway, reportedly easing midway through production. But of course, with a highly-anticipated action film such as this, it's no surprise a stunt or two will go wrong. And now TMZ have learned that stuntman Jeremy Fitzgerald has received a terrible head injury, while filming a scene with Hawkeye. Along with a graphic images, which you can view by clicking, check out the report below. Stuntman Jeremy Fitzgerald tells TMZ, his job was simple -- get hit with an arrow and fall 30 feet off a building ... but he caught his foot on the way down, and slammed his head into the brick ... leaving behind a freshly peeled slab of scalp. But it could have been a LOT worse -- according to Jeremy, he narrowly missed a razor sharp rain gutter during the accident. And if all that

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=40450&:t=font_coloredUPDATEfont Stunt For iThe Avengersi With Hawkeye Goes Wrong Stunt man Gets Scalped