

Tomorrow is the 46th anniversary of Star Trek: The Original Series, and with that, many are expecting some official new info for the upcoming J.J. Abrams-helmed sequel, set to be released on May 17, 2013. The film still doesn't have a title, but that could change soon.

According to Coming Soon, Paramount Pictures have registered two domains:

www.startrekintodarkness.com and www.startrekintodarknessmovie.com. More below: "We've been told that the 2013 J.J. Abrams sequel has chosen a title and will hit theaters as Star Trek Into Darkness. Although we have not yet been able to officially confirm said title, the domain names were both registered yesterday through Markmonitor, an anonymous domain registry service that just so happens to have been utilized by Paramount Pictures for recent URLs like their official G.I. Joe: Retaliation site.". Again, nothing is confirmed, so stay tuned. UPDATE: TrekMovie.com says that this is indeed a title for the new Star Trek

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/Wolvie09/news/?a=66935>