

The official website for Christopher Nolan's The Dark Knight Rises is now officially online and unfortunately it features almost literally nothing. The last couple days the site has been going through different stages 404'ing, 403'ing, redirecting to "thedarkknightriserises.warnerbros.com" and at one point redirecting people directly to the Warner Bros. website. When you first open the page you're brought to a completely black page and you can hear some sort of sound clip of chanting among some other noises/music. It sounds very Gladiator like in my opinion. If you click the black screen you'll be brought directly to the sound clip. The voice is saying something however I cant quite make out what it is so maybe you guys will have better luck with it. Be sure to check back for updates on the site as I'm sure it wont be much longer now. [Click the image below to be taken to the site] *UPDATE* Thanks to
