

Imagine a scene in The Flash movie where news coverage or talk shows sought an expert opinion on the Scarlet Speedster? Who better to turn to than Usain Bolt? An appearance in The Flash movie by Bolt would have been very plausible had Rick Famuyiwa stayed aboard the project as he recently directed Usain Bolt in a Gatorade commercial. However, with the director's chair on The Flash currently vacant, who knows whether cameras are even still slated to roll at some point later this year... ABOUT THE FLASH MOVIE One of the earliest DCEU films announced, the project appears to be in a spot of trouble as it has now lost two directors due to creative differences, first Seth Grahame-Smith and later Rick Famuyiwa. Nevertheless, Ezra Miller's Barry Allen will play a prominent role in 2017's Justice League after a cameo in appearance in 2016's Batman v Superman: Dawn of Justice. He'll be joined by Kiersey Clemons, who has been cast to play

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/the_flash/usain-bolt-would-be-game-for-a-cameo-in-the-flash-movie-a147856