

Rumour has it that Marvel vs. Capcom 4 will be announced at next week's PlayStation Experience, but with no official word from either company, that's far from confirmed as of right now. However, backing those reports up are a new series of images which appear to hail from some sort of announcement trailer. Are they real? Fake? As of right now, we can't say for sure, but they're all pretty convincing! There's every chance that these are fan-made, but they're very professional looking if so, and their timing is definitely interesting. Gamers have been hoping a fourth instalment would happen for some time now, and there have been so many chances to the Marvel Universe since Marvel vs. Capcom 3, it really would be a lot of fun to pit the likes of Captain America and Spider-Man against Capcom icons. We're just going to have to wait and see, but don't be surprised if the title is made official by this time next
