

The first video game to be based on Game Of Thrones wasn't very well received, but Cyanide Studios look to be trying to remedy that with their upcoming RPG based in the world of George R.R Martin's "A Song Of Ice And Fire". We have seen a few stills from the game already but here is the first trailer, which gives us a proper look at the gameplay style. Can't embed it unfortunately so watch by clicking on the image below.. Some great music there that anyone familiar with the tv series will recognize. A definite "Skyrim" vibe to some of the shots too but it obviously remains to be seen if it will play as well as that. What's the verdict so far? up your game at Gambling Insider
