

Ridley Scott's continues to divide both fans and critics the world over. Now while I really enjoyed the movie and forgave a few of its shortcomings, I will not deny that it did have some big problems. Apparently ol Hitler feels the same and airs his grievances below.. Also, we have the lads from Red Letter Media and their unanswered questions about the movie. Are they all being too harsh? Can you provide any answers to the questions they ask? Did it hinder your enjoyment of the movie either way?
