

The fallout from Donald Trump being elected the new President of the United States will likely be felt for a long time to come, and chances are it will dominate the news cycle for, well, the next four years or so! Regardless of your feelings on him or what he'll ultimately bring to the White House, a new video has started doing the rounds which - sort of - lightens the whole situation up with...superheroes! If you're a Trump supporter, this probably isn't for you as it shows some of our favourite Marvel and DC Comics characters reacting with horror to the news that he'd won the election and beaten Hilary Clinton. Among those reacting are Wonder Woman, Star-Lord, and Nite-Owl, and the music used at the end of the video is associated with one of the biggest villains (Darth Vader) in the history of cinema. Whether or not Trump will prove to be a real life supervillain remains to be seen, but

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/avengers/video-marvel-and-dc-comics-superheroes-react-in-horror-to-donald-trump-a146664>