

Anyone who watched the devastating season 7 premiere of The Walking Dead last night will be well aware that it was Abraham and Glenn that suffered Negan's wrath, but back when the episode was being shot, several alternate scenes were filmed to throw people off the scent. In the buildup to the premiere, rumors swirled that it was going to be Maggie (Lauren Cohan) that was murdered, and that might be because she's the one that gets "Lucille-d"; in this leaked vid. Obviously this never actually happened on the show itself, but this is still a depiction of a pregnant woman getting her head bashed in at the end of the day, so y'know, proceed with caution. The Walking Dead returns next Sunday night with an episode titled, "The Well."

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/tv/amc/the_walking_dead/video-of-an-alternate-death-scene-from-last-nights-season-a146251