

The adult Groot was a standout in Guardians of the Galaxy, but not even Marvel Studios anticipated just how popular the baby version introduced in the mid-credits scene would be! When we next see the sentient alien tree, he'll have grown up a little, but as we saw in the trailer, he's going to still be very young (and rocking an awesome jacket which is somehow identical to the one worn by Star-Lord). Talking to Collider, voice actor Vin Diesel shed some light on how the two Groots differ. "Yeah, there is a difference. He couldn't be more naive as Baby Groot. I always think of the Groot that we saw on the first Guardians as a college-level Groot, so he's not fully grown yet, but he's a man. And once he sacrifices himself at the end of the movie, now he has to start all over, so to speak, but we're gonna see this goofy, adorable, baby Groot thing running around

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/guardians_of_the_galaxy/vin-diesel-describes-the-goofy-adorable-baby-groot-well-a146860