

Damn...I need how much? According to New York Magazine, John Carter of Mars needs to earn a whopping $700 Million at the worldwide box office in order to justify a sequel. That would mean that the film needs a higher box-office total than the first Iron Man movie and finish roughly near the first Transformers movie. Yeah, good luck with that. I will admit that the trailer was intriguing and the movie is based on a series of books that have a worldwide following however, as of this moment, general populace interest is pretty low for this flick and there's isn't a big name actor in the lead role. Still, just like the fore-mentioned Iron Man, this movie could come out of nowhere and surprise people and make Taylor Kitsch a bona fide star. John Carter's reported $250 Million budget doesn't help matters either.

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=47977&t=WaitemJohn_Carterem_Needs_To_Make_How_Much_To_Justify_A_Sequel