

In an interview with IGN Robert Kirkman hints that the group Randall was with may in fact be with the Governor. For the full interview check out IGN.com. IGN: Last week, you guys announced David Morrissey would be playing the Governor in season 3. In this episode, Randall reveals that he comes from a group of about 30 people, which if I'm remembering correctly is about the same size as the group in Woodbury in the comics. Can we assume that the arc with Randall will somehow lead into the Governor's introduction? Kirkman: That's certainly a sound assumption. There's definitely something to that. Whether or not Randall is a part of The Governor's group is something that remains to be seen; I can't really speak in absolutes, so I'm going to be a little more wishy-washy with you. I apologize for being evasive, but you may be onto

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/acidbath/news/?a=55814>