

Speaking with Collider, Walton Goggins talks about his next action movie G.I. Joe: Retaliation, in which he plays 'Warden Nigel James'. Goggins says that it was 'fun' working on the film, saying that producer Lorenzo di Bonaventura approached him concerning the role. He also talks about how the film is more grounded in reality compared to the cartoony nature of Rise Of Cobra. For more from Goggins (where he talks about Lincoln and Django Unchained), click the link below. How did you end up getting involved with G.I. Joe 2? Well, Lorenzo [di Bonaventura] just approached me. He had been a fan since The Shield, and he said, "I'm doing this big budget movie and I've got this role I want you to come play." If you can bounce back and forth between a studio movie or a big action movie, like Cowboys & Aliens or G.I. Joe, and you balance that

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/BatFreak/news/?a=53433&t=Walton_Goggins_On_Being_Involved_With_GI_JOE_RETALIATION