

"I'm so sorry, I really can't. I'm dead sure." Ezra Miller was presented with an Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D. comic book to sign while autographing fan memorabilia at the red carpet UK premiere for Fantastic Beasts and Where to Find Them. "You understand why I can't sign that, right?" said a bemused Miller. "Find me something else, I'll sign it. It's so obvious that I can't sign [that Marvel comic]. I'm sorry." The fan doesn't appear to be a comic book fan as they can be heard insisting that the Justice League is part of Marvel. Apparently this particular DCEU actor takes the friendly rivalry with Marvel very seriously. Do you think that fan managed to get Miller's autograph before the day's end? Would certainly be a bummer if they had been waiting for hours, only to be rebuffed.

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/the\_flash/watch-what-ezra-miller-does-when-a-fan-hands-him-a-marvel-comic-book-to-a146805