

SO WHY DO A FLASH MOVIE? I think we can all agree, it's high time a Flash movie is made. The current series is excellent and a success, there's an animated feature on the way, The Flash is ripe for the big screen treatment. There have been numerous attempts at bringing the character to life over the past years, all of them fell through. The toys are already there to play with; The Flash has a great history to draw from and is one of the most iconic and immediately identifiable characters in the pantheon of superheroes. Visually, he has one of the best costume designs of all time; since its inception in 1956, his red suit and gold lightning symbol have went through very few changes that are only noticeable to longtime fans. The Flash is an all around great character, he's a "Superman" type hero with "Batman" type villains. The Flash's

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/Netman0007/news/?a=60627>