

All You Need Is Kill is an upcoming science-fiction film starring Tom Cruise, based on a Japanese graphic novel. The story involves a soldier reliving his last day as he battles aliens. He dies and then comes back to life over and over again. He must use the knowledge from his past failures to defeat the aliens. The plot has been called a sci-fi version of Bill Murray's Groundhog Day. Next up? Training and Tom Cruise as she prepares for her role in All You Need is Kill, which she says will begin production in the fall after she undergoes intensive training to, "Get all grrrr," she growls, doing her best Hulk impression. "I'm actually quite nervous about the training. I'm supposed to be playing one of the best soldiers in the world. Ha. Ha. I think my life is going to be miserable for about 10 weeks. But I'm very excited."

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/nailbiter111/news/?a=58809>