

Ever since he was killed off in Marvel's The Avengers (the sequel for which was recently confirmed for a May 1st, 2015 release), fans have been desperately thinking of ways that Clark Gregg's Agent Coulson could be brought back from the dead. Well, 'The Vision' is certainly one way to go! The talented artist responsible for this sculpt points out that the final painted version will not have pupils, and we'll be sure to bring you those images as soon as they become available. How would you like to see Clark Gregg brought back as 'The Vision' in the follow-up to The Avengers? Sound off with your thoughts below!

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=65883>