

Talking to Coming Soon, Kenneth Branagh (currently earning critical acclaim for his role as Sir Laurence Olivier in My Week With Marilyn) has revealed that he's yet to reach a decision with Marvel Studios as to whether he'll serve as a producer on THOR 2. Here's what he told the site when quizzed about the possibility of still being involved with the movie after passing on the chance to direct. "I think that really it's over to the guys with that," he said. "Timing-wise, it just wasn't going to work for me, and that's absolutely been born out by the kind of year I've had which has been very busy, but I'm very interested. I'll be speaking to the guys when I get back. They're shooting in Shepperton near me, so no doubt, we'll be hooking up and I'll be as little or as much of it as they'd like." And if

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=50558&t=Will_Kenneth_Branagh_Produce_Or_Star_In_THOR_2