

Very little is known about Logan (despite the release of that incredible teaser trailer), but it has been confirmed that we'll meet a young X-23 who it seems Wolverine will be setting out to protect in this movie. That's the theme of this new banner for the highly anticipated release as we see Hugh Jackman's clawed mutant running away from danger - or perhaps into it - with the mutant by his side. Their relationship promises to be a fascinating part of Logan, especially as it's Hugh Jackman's final appearance as Wolverine. As a result, many fans are expecting that X-23 will take over the mantle somewhere down the line, and it will be interesting to see if this movie goes some way in setting that up. Regardless, this new banner is definitely pretty cool and will hopefully be released officially soon. Logan stars Hugh Jackman, Dafne Keen, Boyd Holbrook, Richard E. Grant, Stephen Merchant, and Patrick Stewart. It's currently set to be released
