

It was earlier today that we learned who will play Ares in Wonder Woman, and now a first look at the villain has been revealed at this year's New York Toy Fair. As expected, the God of War is quite a bit bigger than Diana Prince and he looks pretty damn terrifying to boot. However, the similarities to his comic book counterpart are clear to see which is definitely a good thing. The villain will reportedly be brought to life through a mixture of live-action and CGI, and his face is concealed beneath the mask. We can see something under there, though, but it could be that his face is some sort of special effect rather than you-know-who! We'll just have to wait and see, but it's definitely a shame Ares has been revealed this way rather than in the new trailer, an official still, or even the movie itself this June. On the plus side, we do at least now know what to

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/wonder\_woman/wonder-woman-action-figure-reveals-ares-terrifying-appearance-in-the-a149089