

Variety reports that James Marsden has signed up to join the cast of 2 Guns as a naval commander. Unfortunately, that's all we know about his role in the film at this point, although the cast has been filling up very quickly as of late. The big screen adaptation of the Boom! Studios title has already signed up Mark Wahlberg and Denzel Washington (as a Navy Seal and DEA agent respectively who both work together to steal millions of dollars from the CIA without knowing that each is doing so undercover). They end up taking on their double crossing associates in a film which has also seen Bill Paxton, Paula Patton and Edward James Olmos join the cast.

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=62394>