

Batman-News has spotted a new image on Zack Snyder's Vero account, and it offers up a detailed look at Ben Affleck in his "Knightmare" Batman costume from Batman v Superman: Dawn of Justice. The filmmaker captioned the image "Joker Card," and while it's likely this is an old picture, what if it's actually confirmation that we'll get to see the hero back in this suit for next year's Justice League? The scene did after all revolve around Darkseid and his Parademons, while The Flash's message from the future is something we've been told will be addressed somewhere down the line. It seems like we're just going to have to wait and see for now, but if nothing else, this is still a cool photo! As always, be sure to head to the comments section below to let us know your thoughts and theories on this.

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/batman\_vs\_superman/zack-snyder-shares-a-close-up-look-at-batman-v-supermans-a147271