

Zack Snyder continues to use Vero to tease Justice League, and the latest photo comes direct from the editing room as the filmmaker focuses on Jason Momoa's King of Atlantis. Who Aquaman is talking to is unclear, but perhaps Wonder Woman pays Arthur Curry a visit after Bruce Wayne fails to get him to join the team. We'll have to wait and see, but this is a very cool shot of the iconic superhero. Snyder captioned the photo with "Working in the dark," though that obviously doesn't shed any further light on what we should expect here. Aquaman's Batman v Superman: Dawn of Justice cameo was a disappointment, so getting to see him take centre stage in Justice League promises to be fun. After that, he'll star in a movie of his own alongside Amber Heard, Willem Dafoe, and Patrick Wilson. Starring Ben Affleck, Henry Cavill, Ray Fisher, Gal Gadot, Ciarán Hinds, Ezra Miller, and Jason Momoa, Zack Snyder's Justice League is set

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/justice_league/zack-snyder-shares-a-new-shot-of-jason-momoas-aquaman-from-justice-a147527